Blog will address government contracting issues, including the impact and implications of President Obama's government contracting reforms

Washington DC and Boston, MA, March 31, 2009 – Brown Rudnick LLP, an international law firm, today launched an industry blog focused on the proposed U.S. government contracting reforms and other related, timely topics. Kenneth B. Weckstein, blogger and practice leader of the Firm's Government Contracts Group, will offer insight and comment on how these new procedures will affect how businesses contract with the U.S. Government.

The new blog is available at www.brownrudnick.com/blog/governmentcontracts. For more information about Mr. Weckstein or Brown Rudnick's Government Contracts & Litigation Group, please visit www.brownrudnick.com.

Mr. Weckstein is a Partner in the Government Contracts & Litigation Group in Brown Rudnick's Washington DC office. He represents clients on matters related to government contracts, complex civil litigation and trade secrets law. Mr. Weckstein has substantial experience in a wide range of complex civil litigations (jury and bench trials). He has successfully litigated bid protests before the Government Accountability Office and courts and contract disputes before BCAs and courts. He has represented contractors in IG and criminal investigations and handled litigation involving the protection of trade secrets.
