BROWN RUDNICK TO HOST ANNUAL MEETING OF THE INTERNATIONAL LAW FIRM NETWORK IN NEW YORK CITY

Boston, MA, May 2, 2007 -- Brown Rudnick, a premier international law firm, will host the annual meeting of the International Law Firm Network ("the Network") in its New York office on May 3 – 6, 2007. As a founding member of the Network, Brown Rudnick will welcome law firm delegates from around the globe for a weekend of networking events, panel discussions and social activities. Brown Rudnick attorneys will lead programs on, among other topics, arbitration and litigation, carbon emissions trading, cross-border venture capital, and technology monetization and outsourcing.

The International Law Firm Network is an association of law firms with affiliates in close to 40 countries. Members of the Network have close personal and professional relationships with lawyers in each of the Network firms. The law firms of the Network have instant access to experts on the laws, business practices and customs of countries on every continent. Through the Network, law firms are able to coordinate international transactions while dealing with the issues that often accompany such transactions, including cultural and language barriers and differences in legal systems and business practices. For more information, please visit <http://www.the-law-firm-network.com/firms.asp>.

The Network firms are located in the following countries:
